A Fire Engine For Ruthie

A Fire Engine for Ruthie (2004) is about Ruthie, a girl who is spending time at her grandma's house. She and her grandma constantly pass by a neighbor boy, Brian, who is always seen playing with these masculine toys. Ruthie expresses her want to play the boys' toys, but is met with objection by her traditionally feminine grandma.

A Fire Engine for Ruthie - A Story for Everyone

Ruthie shields her eyes from the sun to watch Brian playing on his front porch with a fire engine. A red fire engine with a black-and-white dog sitting up front and a silver ladder that slides up and down and a yellow hose to unwind and a siren that goes whee-ooh! whee-ooh! whee-ooh! "Do you have a fire engine to play with at your house, Nana?"

Newman's latest recalls the Charlotte Zolotow classic William's Doll. Here, however, Newman shifts perspective, centering her story on a girl, Ruthie, and her grandmother, who tries to get her fire-truck-and-motorcycle-loving granddaughter excited about dolls and dress-up. In Moore's watercolor vignettes and framed panels, readers see Ruthie's dilemma—Nana hugs her old dolls while ...
