It's not elementary, but you will need Holmes's famed powers of deduction to solve these crafty puzzles. Here's how it goes: at the end of each conundrum, you'll find at least one condition--and sometimes more--that the solution must meet. For example, here's the first, relatively simple problem: Mr. Scott, his sister, his son, and his daughter are tennis players. The best player's twin and the worst player are of the opposite sex. The best player and the worst player are the same age. Which one of the four is the best player? Did you figure out that Mr. Scott's sister had to be the same age as his children? A few of the puzzles demand a basic knowledge of algebra, and others feature drawings or diagrams.

Give your brain a workout on the type of brainteasers that challenge the best solvers at the World Puzzle Championships. They're tough, but fun, and the feeling of satisfaction you get when you succeed is simply unbeatable. Some of the puzzles are oldies but goodies, like battleships--and its many variants--where you search for a fleet hidden within a grid. In "Eminent Domain," try to determine which blanks cells are owned by the numbered ones. For "Hex Loops," locate a path that travels through adjacent hexagons: the trick is, it has to end where it started, and the lines can't touch or cross. From Snaky Tiles to Spiral Galaxies, these Mensa-level conundrums will get your mind in shape.

A series of over 400 logic puzzles and problems of a variety of levels of difficulty designed by some of Mensa's leading puzzle-setters, with the aim of specifically improving various aspects of logical thought and lateral thinking through puzzle solving and problem confrontation. Tackling these challenges will help boost brain activity and improve concentration and memory - while providing hours of puzzling entertainment.
