Transboundary Water Cooperation In Europe
In Transboundary Water Cooperation in Europe, G\u00f6tz Reichert analyzes the multidimensional regime for the protection and management of European transboundary freshwater resources that is composed of international water law, the water law of the European Union, and domestic water legislation. Accordingly, qualitative and quantitative aspects regarding surface waters and groundwater are to be managed in an integrated manner to achieve "good water status" of rivers, lakes and aquifers.

Transboundary water cooperation in the European Union
A key objective of EU water diplomacy is to engage for the long term in fostering cooperative approaches to address the transboundary challenges of water. Good examples of such cooperation already exist in the Mediterranean basin and in Latin America. Cooperation on shared water resources is vital to securing lasting peace and sustainable development.

40 percent of the world's population lives in one of the 275 transboundary river basins. Transboundary waters account for 60 percent of the world's freshwater flows. Cooperation for the management of shared water resources is therefore crucial for economic development, peace and environmental protection as well as for the achievement of the SDGs. It is even more crucial now, when the COVID-19 pandemic showed the absolute necessity to provide safe and sufficient water and adequate ...
